PROFILE

Within the last five years, I have quickly gone from Video Editor to TV Show producer and project manager. This is due to my talent for developing concepts, supervising staff, using keen sense of marketing and user experience to improve the product. I have strong communication and listening skills. This allows me to gather suggestions and ideas from a range of sources and turn them into working plans that positively impact the project. My good sense of criticism, pragmatism, allow me to see projects through the end.
